LEAGUE ANSWERS VOTE QUESTIONS

PRIMARY DOES NOT INTERFERE BY SUPREME COURT DECISION.

FEB. 3 IS LEGAL DAY ONLY ONE TILL JUNE

Attorney of Anti-Saloon Organization Was Asked for Opinion on Problems Raised by Lawyers Here

After a large number of questions had been raised concerning the coming liquor election in Maryville, W. H. Crawford, city attorney, suggested that this paper should send a list of the clippings to the Anti-Saloon League and ask for the opinion of the league's attorney in the matters on which he is often called to pass a judgment.

Regarding the probable interference of the primary, the opinion of Mr. Crawford and other lawyers here is upheld that the primary is not a state election. A Missouri supreme court decision is cited. Part of the letter follows:

"Now as to the primary. This is not an election under the general statute of the state, and has no bearing whatsoever upon the holding of local option elections. This is clearly settled by the supreme court of the state in the case of Million vs. Graham, see Missouri reports 246, page 259. There will be quite a number of local option elections in this state next summer without any reference whatever to the August primaries."

Mayor Wants February 3.

Mayor U. S. Wright has expressed himself as favoring February 3 as the voting day from the beginning of the discussion several Sundays ago, when the anti-saloon men were here. Concerning that date, the Anti-Saloon League attorney says:

"In case the 'dry' forces of your city want to hold a local option election in February, the fact that there is only one day in which all the requirements of the law can be complied with would not in any wise endanger the legality of the election, provided those requirements are complied with.

"A common council or county court has a perfect right to call a local option election at any adjourned meeting, and such adjourned meeting can be at any hour of the day. If, therefore, a local option election should be called in your city immediately after the expiration of four years from the time of your previous election, and the election be advertised full twenty-eight days and then held an actual sixty days away from your spring election it would be a legal election.

"The fact that they could get in a general election only because 1916 will be a leap year and February will have twenty-nine days does not affect the question at all."

In the foregoing is also answered the other interesting question which has been raised by several Maryville lawyers as to whether the word "submit" does not mean that the election can be held any time after midnight on January 4, 1916, when the four years are up. It is held that "submit" refers in the statute to the calling of the election, not the holding.

John Kane's six months' saloon license will expire February 6. If the city votes "dry" on the 3d of February, it will not be necessary for the city council to grant Mr. Kane another permit. William Heller's saloon license will expire in June.

The date which will be recommended for the option election will be decided upon by a committee before the union meeting of the Men's clubs of the churches is called.

MISS ANTHONY RETURNS

WILL GO TO KANSAS CITY TO TRI-STATE, NOV. 29.

Educational Conference at Nashville Was Specially Worth While and to the Point, She Says.

Miss Hettie M. Anthony, head of the home economics department of the Normal, returned this morning from Nashville, where she attended an educational conference, headed by P. P. Paxton, United States commissioner of education.

She reports that all the meetings were most worth-while and to the point. Dr. Paxton presided personally at both of the home economics conferences, which added to their interest. Dr. Payne, president of Peabody college, in which the conferences were held, also was closely associated.

One delegate from each state attended and several from the nearer states. A Missouri luncheon was held which thirty Missourians in Nashville attended. The small number made it possible to know each other intimately and added to the pleasure of the conference. Pathe Weekly considered the meeting of enough importance to have a movie taken from it.

The most important feature of the conference was the decision to make a definite and energetic campaign for universal education so that every child might have an equal opportunity. Miss Anthony will go to Kansas City Nov. 29 and 30 to attend a tri-state conference of home economics teachers from Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska. Miss Lyford of the United States department of agriculture will have charge.

A RHYMING 'STUNT'

TALENTED FOLKS ANSWERED TO JINGLES AT RECEPTION.

CROWD HONORS BURRIS

Women Close First Day of Successful Bazaar With Entertainment Which Made Lots of Fun.

The reception and stunt party given in the First M. E. church basement last night for Rev. G. S. Cox and Rev. W. F. Burris was a decided success. A very large number were present. The feature of the program was a "stunt" which included a rhyme read by Mr. Cox, which was most entertaining and interesting. The rhyme was.:

"We'd like to hear you tell today,
Some funny things that children say,"
to which Mrs. Wadley and Mrs. O. C. Hanna responded with some very clever jokes of the little folks.

"Describe some women in the town,
Her nose and hair, her dress and gown;
But do not give us her address,
Nor tell her name, and we will guess,"
which was not at all difficult for O. C. Hanna.

"We'd like a story full of fun;
You're gifted, Corwin, tell us one,"
and C. C. Corwin lived up to his reputation.

"Misery likes company, so they say;
We'd like to hear you tell today
(Don't hesitate, but now begin)
Of the worst scrape you were ever in."
It was "some" scrape, too, that Mr. George Baker related.

"Your part in the program to help us along
Will give us much pleasure; please sing us a song.
If music hath charms we wish that today
You'd prove it, and something quite charming play."

Travis Pendegrast responded with two beautiful solos.

"Tell some joke on yourself, your wife, or your friend,
But we hope you will have it pleasantly end."

Dr. Burris knew just what to tell and how to end it. What man doesn't.

"Describe some trip you've taken afar,
To Mexico, Europe or Zanzibar."

Mrs. R. S. Braniger gave a very interesting account of her travels.

"Describe some famous picture,
Whether dark or fair,
Please tell us all about it,
And the artist fair."

Miss DeLuce of the Normal art department very charmingly responded.

The quartet then sang several selections, after which those present enjoyed a social hour. Punch was served by Miss Mildred Bellows and Miss Mabel Curnutt.

The women of the bazaar served large crowds at dinner and supper yesterday and today. The young ladies of the church had their home-made candy booth just inside the door, and their offerings were among the most dainty.

The products of the seamstresses gathered the women around that booth as if it were a bargain counter. The fancy work display looked like one of the exhibit tables at an institute or fair. But the men could not get very interested in anything but the tables.

And the editor, being a man, does believe that first honors should go to the cooks, under the leadership of Mrs. L. L. Holbrook.

HILLSTROM IS SHOT

GOVERNOR RESENTS WILSON'S SECOND PARDON REQUEST.

"NO INJUSTICE DONE"

I. W. W. Leader Protests His Innocence to Last—Swedish Ambassador Asked Reprieve.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Nov. 19.—Joseph Hillstrom, whose execution has received so much notoriety because of the efforts of President Wilson and thousands of others to save him, was shot by a firing squad this morning.

He was found guilty of murder in an I. W. W. labor trouble but his guilt was so strongly questioned by the American Federation of Labor and the Swedish ambassador that many requests for pardon or reprieve had been made to Governor Spry of Utah.

The execution was at 7:41 this morning. The request of the prisoner that he be left unblindfolded before the firing squad was not granted. Utah gives its death prisoners the choice of shooting or hanging.

Governor Spry sent a telegram to President Wilson last night in which he but slightly concealed his resentment at the chief executive's part in the famous case. He said in part:

"Your interference in the case may have elevated it to an undue importance and the receipt of thousands of threatening letters demanding the release of Hillstrom, regardless of his guilt or innocence, may attach a peculiar importance to it, but the case is important in Utah only as establishing, after a fair and impartial trial, the guilt of one of the perpetrators of one of the most atrocious murders ever committed in this state.

"As to your suggestion that justice requires further consideration of the case, I earnestly submit that the imputation contained, not only in your message to me but also in your message to the president of the American Federation of Labor, that this convict has not had justice in the courts of this state, is not justified."

His Farewells.

He sent several farewell telegrams. One addressed to W. D. Haywood, secretary-treasurer of the I. W. W., Chicago, read:

It is a hundred miles from here to Wyoming. Could you arrange to have my body hauled to the state line to be buried? Don't want to be found dead in the state of Utah.

Another telegram to Haywood read:

Good-bye, Bill. I will die like a true blue rebel. Don't waste any time in mourning—organize.

A message to Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, New York, read:

Composed new song last week with music dedicated to the dove of peace. It's coming. And now, good-by, Gurley, dear. I have lived like a rebel and I shall die like a rebel.

SAYS IT ISN'T AN INCREASE

Presidents of Railroads Say That the Order of Comission Is Really 2-Cent Fare.

A signed statement issued yesterday at St. Louis by the presidents of the trunk railroads operating in Missouri says the rate decision of the Missouri public service commission in reality allows but a slight increase in passenger rates and that under the rates authorized last Saturday 2 cents a mile still is the prevailing rate. The statement follows:

"The impression prevails throughout the United States that the railroads have been given the privilege of advancing their passenger rates from 2 to 2½ cents a mile. This is a misconception, as the very conditions under which the advance is permitted prevent the railroads from getting it.

"The advance to 2½ cents a mile cannot be made, except upon the condition that round trip tickets be sold at 2¼ cents a mile and that 500 and 1,000 mile tickets, good for bearer and any number of persons for one year, be sold at 2 cents a mile.

"These conditions will make 2 cents a mile the prevailing rate for transportation.

"The sale of round trip tickets at 2¼ cents a mile is equivalent to a reduction of 10 per cent from the rate of 2½ cents a mile. The sale of a mileage ticket at 2 cents a mile, that can be used by any number of persons, is equivalent to a reduction of 20 per cent from the rate of 2½ cents a mile and brings the purchase of these tickets within the reach of the majority of travelers.

"The public would buy these mileage tickets to such an extent as to prevent the railroads, for at least one year, from getting the benefit from any raise in passenger fare the commission might on a rehearing allow.

"The opinion is advanced by the commission that the sale of mileage tickets, under the conditions outlined, will increase travel. This theory is refuted by the actual experience of the Missouri railroads under the present 2-cent rate, which the commission admits has not increased travel sufficiently to offset the loss in revenue.

"Our opinion with respect to the effect of the changes premitted in freight rates will require more time and study, but in the meantime we are forced to the conclusion that the order as applied to passenger rates will result in very small increases in revenue."

PRIZE-WINNING POEM

G. W. Walton of Elmo, Sent "Girl of Seventeen" in Contest of Kansas City Post Recently.

This poem was sent by G. W. Walton a banker of Elmo, in the contest as to what age a woman is most beautiful to The Kansas City Post. It won a prize.

Do you know what I think is the fairest thing
That ever my eyes have seen?
'Tis the blushing, beautiful face and form
Of a girl just seventeen.
The charm of her childhood lingers yet
In the shade of her clustering curls,
And her soul, with its unripe thoughts aglow,
Is as pure as the Ocean pearls.
The bird of Joy in her bosom sings
And lives in her laughing eyes,
And her glad heart thrills with a boundless love
For everything under the skies.
Like a stream that never a rough wind swept
Her beautiful life glides on,
While her face, where no shadow has ever crept,
Is bright as the Orient dawn.
Her dainty feet on the threshold wait
For a beck from "the grown-up land,"
And there she dreams as she holds her fate
In the palm of her dimpled hand.
And yet, I feel there will come too soon
A change in that girlish heart
When the days that were and the days that are
Will now and forever depart.
And so must the days and the months go by
With the smiles and the tears between,
'Till in just one year you would scarcely know
The girl of seventeen.

HIGHWAY IMPROVEMENT

ROAD DRAG BOTHERING MANY

Implement Cannot Be Used to Advantage Except When Ground Is in Right Condition.

The road drag is giving the public, the politicians and the county supervisors a world of trouble, troubling them, we sometimes think, more than the drag itself, troubles the roads. It is such a foolishly simple thing, so cheap and so easily made, that the average man off the farm, and not a few on the farm, are prone to think: Can there any good thing come out of such a Nazareth?

It seems to be impossible by any legislation that has been enacted, to induce farmers generally to use the drag. The townsmen with automobiles soundly belabor the farmers for not using it, and sometimes hound the farmers along these automobile roads into using it when it is a damage instead of a benefit.

The inherent difficulty in using the drag and making legislation effective is this, that the drag cannot be used to advantage except when the ground is in the right condition, says a writer in Wallace's Farmer. It is of no use at all when the ground is very dry, and often a damage. There is but one way that we see of making it thoroughly practical, and that is for the farmer himself, who knows when it has rained and when the roads should be dragged, to get out and use it on the road alongside his own farm. Occasionally we hear of a county supervisor who calls up his neighbors by telephone, and tells them that now is the time to drag the roads, and persuades them to do it, with wonderfully good results. But it does not always rain over the whole of a supervisor's district at the same time.

We shall have to depend on dirt roads in the corn belt for a long time to come. Not altogether; for we shall have some gravel and brick and cement roads on the main traveled thoroughfares; but nine-tenths of the roads must be dirt, and must be kept in shape by use of the drag.

A few weeks ago we traveled along a road admirably adapted to dragging, and at the crossroads was a road machine costing a large sum of money. It was evidently managed by a man who had no faith in the drag, and who had been spending the people's money in digging up the side of the road and putting the sod on the middle of it, as though sod would make a good road. Vegetable matter is a fine thing in the corn field, but you cannot possibly make a good road until you get rid of it. Why, at great expense to the county and the township, invest in a road grader, and then spoil the road by putting all the rubbish into the middle of it?

We don't believe we shall ever have good roads in Iowa until the farmer is given charge of half the road along his line, and the owner of the adjoining farm the other half, and is then persuaded to drag his half after every rain, assuming in the first place that it has been drained and graded. This will give us the best of roads when they are good. It will not give us good roads all the year around. There is a time of the year when dirt roads will poach up. That cannot be helped—but the better they are graded and the better they are dragged at the proper time, the better they will become, and the less they will poach.

When on the good roads train, nearly ten years ago, we tried to appeal to farmers to keep their roads dragged whether they were paid for it or not, for love of their farms and their community. They should be paid for it, provided the work is properly done, either by remission of taxes or actual cash; but if not, pride of their farm should induce them to drag it.

Progress and Prosperity.

Our public highways are the avenues over which all the people may travel. They are the avenues which all our marketable farm products must pass before reaching the channels of trade and commerce. Good roads mean progress and prosperity, a benefit to the people who live in the cities and an advantage to the people who live in the country. They mean the economical transportation of marketable farm products, the necessaries of life at a minimum cost.

GIRLS! HAVE A MASS OF BEAUTIFUL HAIR, SOFT, GLOSSY, WAVY

25-Cent Bottle Destroys Dandruff and Doubles Beauty of Your Hair.

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you cannot find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance.

Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all—you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine.

The Passing Poem.

From the London, Va., Mirror.

If you want to live in the kind of a town
That's the kind of a town you like,
You needn't slip your clothes in a grip
And start on a long, long hike.

You'll find elsewhere what you left behind,
For there's nothing that's really new.
It's a knock at yourself when you knock your town;
It isn't your town—it's you.
Real towns are not made by men afraid
Lest somebody else gets ahead.
When everybody works and nobody shirks
You can raise a town from the dead.

And if while you make your personal stake
Your neighbor can make one, too.
Your town will be what you want to see.
It isn't your town—it's you.

FARM CHANGES NEAR B. J.

Fred Griffey Moving to Country and Fred Hilles to Town.

Fred Griffey is moving to his 160-acre farm, northeast of town, this week, and will again become a "son of the soil." He has his place well stocked and can begin just where he left off a year ago when he came to Burlington Junction to run the garage.

Mr. and Mrs. Hilles have leased their farm, west of Burlington Junction, to John Miller, and will make their home in Burlington Junction. Possession will be given March 1, at which time they will move here.

Fred has never been feeling first class since his accident last winter, when the horse he was riding fell on his leg, fracturing it. The old injury often bothers him while he is working and he has decided to give it a good rest.

John Miller, who has rented the farm, has been living on the C. H. Miller place, near Quitman, this year.—Burlington Junction Post.

SPARE INSECT-EATING BIRDS

Drastic Measures Must Be Taken to Save Quail, Grouse and Pheasants From Complete Annihilation.

"The time has come when every sportsman should put away his gun for five years at least," said Col. G. O. Shields during a recent lecture upon "Birds and Animals of America."

Colonel Shields argued that drastic measures must be put into effect if quail, grouse, pheasants, and prairie chickens are to be saved from extinction. The annihilation of these birds, he said, would mean untold poverty resulting from the scarcity of crops which would be eaten by insects.

"Ninety per cent of the normal bird life of this country already has been destroyed and the other 10 per cent will go in the next five years unless strong measures are employed to stop the slaughter," he said. "Careful scientists tell us that if all the insect-eating birds were destroyed the whole continent would, within three years, become uninhabitable by reason of the myriads of insects that would spring up and devour every living thing."

Roads Should Be Crooked.

Good roads in the future should be built on the zig-zag plan for the avoidance of hills and steep grades, the federal office of good roads announced recently in declaring that the lives of horses and automobiles could be lengthened thereby and the cost of hauling reduced materially. The experts contend that "the longest way around often may be the shortest and most economical way home," and decry the natural tendency to build straight roads whenever they must breast heavy grades.

Real Generosity.

After six months of widowhood, Lizzie consented to enter the state of matrimony again, says the Pittsburgh Dispatch. Shortly after she was led to the altar her former mistress met her on the street Lizzie was dressed in deepest mourning.

"Why, Lizzie," exclaimed the other in great surprise, "for whom are you in black?"

"It's for poor Mike, my furrst husband," answered Lizzie. "When he died Oi wuz that poor Oi couldn't but Oi said if iver Oi could Oi would, an' me new man, Dan, is as generous as a lard, mum!"

FERTILIZERS FOR WHEAT

Recommendations for Farmers Given After Long Tests in Northern Missouri by University.

The Missouri Agricultural Experiment Station, under M. F. Miller, has been conducting experiments on a series of fields in both Northern and Southern Missouri, with fertilizer, lime manure, etc., for a number of years and with striking results.

For the farmer handling level prairie or the worn areas of the rolling prairie of Northern Missouri, a fertilizer high in phosphate such as one containing 2 per cent. nitrogen, 10 per cent, available phosphoric acid and 1 per cent potash applied before wheat, or the same fertilizer with nitrogen omitted, will give good results. The scarcity of potash prevents the profitable use of fertilizer containing more than the above per cent this season.

The use of fertilizer on wheat is steadily increasing. It must always be understood that one should not depend on fertilizer alone. It should be used with proper systems of soil management for maintaining organic matter.

The results of a number of years' experience with fertilizers, on a series of soil experiment fields, have definitely indicated the best systems of soil management for Missouri soils. Free bulletins Nos. 126, 127 and 128 for northern Missouri and free bulletins Nos. 119, 129 and 130 for the southern part of the state may be secured from Missouri Agricultural Experiment Station at Columbia, Mo. They cover these experiments in detail and give very valuable information for Missouri farmers.

Old Fashioned Weather Signs.

In its current issue, Farm and Fireside, the national farm paper published in Springfield, Ohio, says, of course that the best weather prophet in the world is the United States weather bureau, which is right at least four times out of five. In regard to the less scientific guides Farm and Fireside says:

"Here are a few weather signs which are older probably than anyone living today. Experience has shown them to be fairly reliable, and some of them can be explained on a scientific basis:

"Moonlight nights have the heaviest frosts.

"The higher the clouds the finer the weather.

"The farther the sight the nearer the rain.

"Dew is an indication of fine weather.

"When the stars flicker in a dark background, rain or snow follows soon

"Expect a strong wind with stormy weather when smoke from chimneys hangs near the ground.

"Here are a few in verse. They have the advantage of being easily remembered:

"Clear moon,
Frost soon.
"Year of snow
Fruit will grow.
"Rain before seven,
Fine before eleven.
"If the sun set in gray
The next will be a rainy day.
"When the wind's in the south
The rain's in its mouth.
The wind in the west
Suits everyone best.
"If you see grass in January
Lock your grain in your granary.
"Evening red and morning gray
Help the traveler on his way;
Evening gray and morning red
Bring down rain upon his head.
When the clouds appear like rocks and towers,
The earth's refreshed by frequent showers.

"If you get the official weather report by phone you'd better count on that first. But the proverbs and jingles just given are better than a common guess."

A New Method of Baking Cakes

Mrs. Nevada Briggs, the baking expert, says:

"There is just one way to make your cakes rise high and evenly—give them time to rise before a crust is formed and the batter is stiffened by cooking."

"If using a gas, gasoline or oil stove, light your oven when you put the cake in and keep the flame low until the cake has doubled in bulk; then increase the heat until it is evenly browned and will respond to the pressure of the finger. If using a coal or wood range, leave the oven door open until the cake is in; then turn on the drafts and by the time the oven is at baking temperature, the cake will have raised sufficiently."

For rich, moist, feathery cakes Mrs. Briggs always recommends

KC BAKING POWDER

It is double acting and sustains the raise. You can open and close the oven door, turn the tin around in the oven or do anything else necessary, without any danger of making the cake fall.

Try your favorite cake next time with K C Baking Powder and see how much higher it will rise. Make it just as you always do, with the same quantity of baking powder. While K C is less expensive than the old fashioned baking powders, it has even greater leavening strength and it is guaranteed pure and healthful.

WOULD STANDARDIZE SCHOOLS

Investigation in Progress by Men From the University of Missouri to Furnish Basis for Reorganization.

That every boy and girl in Missouri may have an equal chance to attend a good school, and that each school may be as good as the best now, is the end that representatives of the School of Education of the University of Missouri have in view in a study of school conditions they are making. That a reorganization of the school system is necessary is seen by the investigators.

Abner Jones, Peabody fellow in education at the University of Missouri, and Prof. J. D. Elliff, inspector of accredited schools for the University of Missouri, approve of a plan presented to the State Teacher's Association during its recent session at Kansas City for giving informational publicity to the conditions of the schools of the state. This would have as its object the standardization of all Missouri's public schools. It involves improved facilities, reorganization and aid for weaker schools, and minimum salary for teachers.

Educational surveys completed in two counties and in progress in others furnish part of the material for the project. A report of a survey of the educational conditions in Reynolds county will be published in a few months by the University.

Not only the standardization of the public schools is considered by the advocates of the improved system, but also a division of work with the state school inspectors which will allow the University to aid in standardizing private schools and junior colleges. Professor Elliff probably will give more time than usual this year to the inspection of the schools giving higher courses than the regular high schools.

FALL FEED FOR COWS.

Use Silage as the Grass Becomes Shorter and Dryer.

You cannot expect a cow to keep up a good milk flow without plenty of feed of the right kind. Now that pastures are furnishing less feed, silage should be given to keep conditions as nearly as possible the same as those found on spring and summer pastures. It is easy to forget that the cow's feed is being shortened, but if the best returns are to be secured the milk flow must be kept as high as possible for ten or eleven months of the year. If it once goes down it is very hard or impossible to raise it again before the next freshening.

When the pastures dry up while corn is still green, it furnishes the cheapest and most efficient addition to grass, but silage, grain, and hay are now the main things to rely on. The amount given should be gradually increased as the pasture furnishes less and less feed.

Less feed will be required and better results secured if a good barn is used. While the fat steer is so well protected by a thick layer of fat that he does not feel the cold so keenly, even he requires more food if not sheltered. The dairy cow will not do her best work when exposed to cold even tho given plenty of feed. It is cheaper and more effective to keep her warm by means of a barn than by means of corn.—C. H. Eckles, University of Missouri, College of Agriculture.

Mrs. C. E. Gruber and son, Donald, who was called here on account of death of her parents the late Harry Whitney and wife, returned to her home in Grant City, Mo., this morning.

PUBLIC ROADS

IMPORTANCE OF ROAD REPAIR

Impression That There Are Certain Types of Highways That Are Permanent Is Erroneous.

There is no phase of the road problem more important than that of maintenance. The general impression that there are certain types of roads that are permanent is erroneous. No permanent road has ever been constructed or ever will be, according to the road specialists of the United States department of agriculture. The only things about a road that may be considered permanent are the grading, culverts and bridges. Roads constructed by the most skillful highway engineers will soon be destroyed by the traffic, frost, rain and wind, unless they are properly maintained. But the life of these roads may be prolonged by systematic maintenance. A poor road will not only be improved by proper maintenance, but may become better in time than a good road without it.

The first and last commandment in earth road maintenance is to keep the surface well drained. To insure good drainage the ditches should be kept open, all obstructions removed and a smooth crown maintained. Except for very stony soil the road machine or scraper may be used very effectively for this work. The machine should be used once or twice a year and the work should be done when the soil is damp so that it will pack and bake into a hard crust. Wide and shallow side ditches should be maintained with sufficient fall and capacity to dispose of surface water. These ditches can in most places be constructed and repaired with a road machine.

All vegetable matter such as sods and weeds should be kept out of the road as they make a spongy surface which retains moisture. Clods are also objectionable for they soon turn to dust or mud and for that reason roads should never be worked when dry or hard. Boulders or loose stones are equally objectionable if a smooth surface is to be secured.

A split-log drag or some similar device is very useful in maintaining the surface after suitable ditches and cross sections have once been secured. This drag can also be used to advantage on a gravel road as well as on an earth road. The principle involved in dragging is that clays and most heavy soils will puddle when wet and set very hard when dry. The little attention that the earth road needs must be given promptly and at the proper time if the best results are to be obtained.

In dragging roads only a small amount of earth is moved, just enough to fill the ruts and depressions with a thin layer of plastic clay or earth which packs very hard so that the next rain instead of finding ruts, depressions and clods in which to collect runs off leaving the surface but little affected.

The drag should be light and should be drawn over the road at an angle of about forty-five degrees. The driver should ride on the drag and should not drive faster than a walk. One round trip, each trip straddling a wheel track, is usually sufficient to fill the ruts and smooth the surface. If necessary the road should be dragged after every bad spell of weather, when the soil is in proper condition to puddle well and still not adhere to the drag. If the road is very bad it may be dragged when very wet and again when it begins to dry out. A few trips over the road will give the operator an idea as to the best time to drag. Drag at all seasons, but do not drag a dry road.

The slope or crown of an earth road should be about one inch to the foot. If the crown becomes too high it may be reduced by dragging toward the ditch instead of from it. If the drag cuts too much, shorten the hitch and change your position on the drag. If it is necessary to protect the face of the drag with a strip of iron, it should be placed flush with the edge of the drag and not projecting. A cutting edge should be avoided, as the main object in dragging is to smear the damp soil into position.

Usually Too Narrow.

The average roadway is crowned too narrow. Sixteen feet, in these days of autos and auto trucks, is none too much, and where travel is heavy 20 would be better.

Nothing New.

"I see," said Bilkins, "that a French scientist has discovered a method for staving off old age."

"Well, what of it?" demanded Wilkins. "There's nothing new in that. A man can stave off old age by jumping off the Eiffel tower, or dropping a lighted match in a powder barrel while sitting on it, or by rocking the boat when he's out on the water, or by riding over Niagara Falls sitting astride of a log. Those French scientists make me tired with their hullabaloo over nothing."—Harper's Weekly.

A Selfish Question.

Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, discussing the divorce evil, said in Philadelphia:

"Love is the best foundation for marriage, of course. But commonsense keeps it cool—and cool things, of course, keep the best.

"But selfishness kills all—and some married people are as selfish as the lady to whom the palmist said:

"'These lines, alas, tell me that you are destined to wear widow's weeds.

"'Oh, dear me!' said the lady. 'For how long.'"

LEAGUE ANSWERS VOTE QUESTIONS

PRIMARY DOES NOT INTERFERE BY SUPREME COURT DECISION.

FEB. 3 IS LEGAL DAY ONLY ONE TILL JUNE

Attorney of Anti-Saloon Organization Was Asked for Opinion on Problems Raised by Lawyers Here

After a large number of questions had been raised concerning the coming liquor election in Maryville, W. H. Crawford, city attorney, suggested that this paper should send a list of the clippings to the Anti-Saloon League and ask for the opinion of the league's attorney in the matters on which he is often called to pass a judgment.

Regarding the probable interference of the primary, the opinion of Mr. Crawford and other lawyers here is upheld that the primary is not a state election. A Missouri supreme court decision is cited. Part of the letter follows:

"Now as to the primary. This is not an election under the general statute of the state, and has no bearing whatsoever upon the holding of local option elections. This is clearly settled by the supreme court of the state in the case of Million vs. Graham, see Missouri reports 246, page 259. There will be quite a number of local option elections in this state next summer without any reference whatever to the August primaries."

Mayor Wants February 3.

Mayor U. S. Wright has expressed himself as favoring February 3 as the voting day from the beginning of the discussion several Sundays ago, when the anti-saloon men were here. Concerning that date, the Anti-Saloon League attorney says:

"In case the 'dry' forces of your city want to hold a local option election in February, the fact that there is only one day in which all the requirements of the law can be complied with would not in any wise endanger the legality of the election, provided those requirements are complied with.

"A common council or county court has a perfect right to call a local option election at any adjourned meeting, and such adjourned meeting can be at any hour of the day. If, therefore, a local option election should be called in your city immediately after the expiration of four years from the time of your previous election, and the election be advertised full twenty-eight days and then held an actual sixty days away from your spring election it would be a legal election.

"The fact that they could get in a general election only because 1916 will be a leap year and February will have twenty-nine days does not affect the question at all."

In the foregoing is also answered the other interesting question which has been raised by several Maryville lawyers as to whether the word "submit" does not mean that the election can be held any time after midnight on January 4, 1916, when the four years are up. It is held that "submit" refers in the statute to the calling of the election, not the holding.

John Kane's six months' saloon license will expire February 6. If the city votes "dry" on the 3d of February, it will not be necessary for the city council to grant Mr. Kane another permit. William Heller's saloon license will expire in June.

The date which will be recommended for the option election will be decided upon by a committee before the union meeting of the Men's clubs of the churches is called.

MISS ANTHONY RETURNS

WILL GO TO KANSAS CITY TO TRI-STATE, NOV. 29.

Educational Conference at Nashville Was Specially Worth While and to the Point, She Says.

Miss Hettie M. Anthony, head of the home economics department of the Normal, returned this morning from Nashville, where she attended an educational conference, headed by P. P. Paxton, United States commissioner of education.

She reports that all the meetings were most worth-while and to the point. Dr. Paxton presided personally at both of the home economics conferences, which added to their interest. Dr. Payne, president of Peabody college, in which the conferences were held, also was closely associated.

One delegate from each state attended and several from the nearer states. A Missouri luncheon was held which thirty Missourians in Nashville attended. The small number made it possible to know each other intimately and added to the pleasure of the conference. Pathe Weekly considered the meeting of enough importance to have a movie taken from it.

The most important feature of the conference was the decision to make a definite and energetic campaign for universal education so that every child might have an equal opportunity. Miss Anthony will go to Kansas City Nov. 29 and 30 to attend a tri-state conference of home economics teachers from Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska. Miss Lyford of the United States department of agriculture will have charge.

A RHYMING 'STUNT'

TALENTED FOLKS ANSWERED TO JINGLES AT RECEPTION.

CROWD HONORS BURRIS

Women Close First Day of Successful Bazaar With Entertainment Which Made Lots of Fun.

The reception and stunt party given in the First M. E. church basement last night for Rev. G. S. Cox and Rev. W. F. Burris was a decided success. A very large number were present. The feature of the program was a "stunt" which included a rhyme read by Mr. Cox, which was most entertaining and interesting. The rhyme was.:

"We'd like to hear you tell today,
Some funny things that children say,"
to which Mrs. Wadley and Mrs. O. C. Hanna responded with some very clever jokes of the little folks.

"Describe some women in the town,
Her nose and hair, her dress and gown;
But do not give us her address,
Nor tell her name, and we will guess,"
which was not at all difficult for O. C. Hanna.

"We'd like a story full of fun;
You're gifted, Corwin, tell us one,"
and C. C. Corwin lived up to his reputation.

"Misery likes company, so they say;
We'd like to hear you tell today
(Don't hesitate, but now begin)
Of the worst scrape you were ever in."
It was "some" scrape, too, that Mr. George Baker related.

"Your part in the program to help us along
Will give us much pleasure; please sing us a song.
If music hath charms we wish that today
You'd prove it, and something quite charming play."

Travis Pendegrast responded with two beautiful solos.

"Tell some joke on yourself, your wife, or your friend,
But we hope you will have it pleasantly end."

Dr. Burris knew just what to tell and how to end it. What man doesn't.

"Describe some trip you've taken afar,
To Mexico, Europe or Zanzibar."

Mrs. R. S. Braniger gave a very interesting account of her travels.

"Describe some famous picture,
Whether dark or fair,
Please tell us all about it,
And the artist fair."

Miss DeLuce of the Normal art department very charmingly responded.

The quartet then sang several selections, after which those present enjoyed a social hour. Punch was served by Miss Mildred Bellows and Miss Mabel Curnutt.

The women of the bazaar served large crowds at dinner and supper yesterday and today. The young ladies of the church had their home-made candy booth just inside the door, and their offerings were among the most dainty.

The products of the seamstresses gathered the women around that booth as if it were a bargain counter. The fancy work display looked like one of the exhibit tables at an institute or fair. But the men could not get very interested in anything but the tables.

And the editor, being a man, does believe that first honors should go to the cooks, under the leadership of Mrs. L. L. Holbrook.

HILLSTROM IS SHOT

GOVERNOR RESENTS WILSON'S SECOND PARDON REQUEST.

"NO INJUSTICE DONE"

I. W. W. Leader Protests His Innocence to Last—Swedish Ambassador Asked Reprieve.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Nov. 19.—Joseph Hillstrom, whose execution has received so much notoriety because of the efforts of President Wilson and thousands of others to save him, was shot by a firing squad this morning.

He was found guilty of murder in an I. W. W. labor trouble but his guilt was so strongly questioned by the American Federation of Labor and the Swedish ambassador that many requests for pardon or reprieve had been made to Governor Spry of Utah.

The execution was at 7:41 this morning. The request of the prisoner that he be left unblindfolded before the firing squad was not granted. Utah gives its death prisoners the choice of shooting or hanging.

Governor Spry sent a telegram to President Wilson last night in which he but slightly concealed his resentment at the chief executive's part in the famous case. He said in part:

"Your interference in the case may have elevated it to an undue importance and the receipt of thousands of threatening letters demanding the release of Hillstrom, regardless of his guilt or innocence, may attach a peculiar importance to it, but the case is important in Utah only as establishing, after a fair and impartial trial, the guilt of one of the perpetrators of one of the most atrocious murders ever committed in this state.

"As to your suggestion that justice requires further consideration of the case, I earnestly submit that the imputation contained, not only in your message to me but also in your message to the president of the American Federation of Labor, that this convict has not had justice in the courts of this state, is not justified."

His Farewells.

He sent several farewell telegrams. One addressed to W. D. Haywood, secretary-treasurer of the I. W. W., Chicago, read:

It is a hundred miles from here to Wyoming. Could you arrange to have my body hauled to the state line to be buried? Don't want to be found dead in the state of Utah.

Another telegram to Haywood read:

Good-bye, Bill. I will die like a true blue rebel. Don't waste any time in mourning—organize.

A message to Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, New York, read:

Composed new song last week with music dedicated to the dove of peace. It's coming. And now, good-by, Gurley, dear. I have lived like a rebel and I shall die like a rebel.

SAYS IT ISN'T AN INCREASE

Presidents of Railroads Say That the Order of Comission Is Really 2-Cent Fare.

A signed statement issued yesterday at St. Louis by the presidents of the trunk railroads operating in Missouri says the rate decision of the Missouri public service commission in reality allows but a slight increase in passenger rates and that under the rates authorized last Saturday 2 cents a mile still is the prevailing rate. The statement follows:

"The impression prevails throughout the United States that the railroads have been given the privilege of advancing their passenger rates from 2 to 2½ cents a mile. This is a misconception, as the very conditions under which the advance is permitted prevent the railroads from getting it.

"The advance to 2½ cents a mile cannot be made, except upon the condition that round trip tickets be sold at 2¼ cents a mile and that 500 and 1,000 mile tickets, good for bearer and any number of persons for one year, be sold at 2 cents a mile.

"These conditions will make 2 cents a mile the prevailing rate for transportation.

"The sale of round trip tickets at 2¼ cents a mile is equivalent to a reduction of 10 per cent from the rate of 2½ cents a mile. The sale of a mileage ticket at 2 cents a mile, that can be used by any number of persons, is equivalent to a reduction of 20 per cent from the rate of 2½ cents a mile and brings the purchase of these tickets within the reach of the majority of travelers.

"The public would buy these mileage tickets to such an extent as to prevent the railroads, for at least one year, from getting the benefit from any raise in passenger fare the commission might on a rehearing allow.

"The opinion is advanced by the commission that the sale of mileage tickets, under the conditions outlined, will increase travel. This theory is refuted by the actual experience of the Missouri railroads under the present 2-cent rate, which the commission admits has not increased travel sufficiently to offset the loss in revenue.

"Our opinion with respect to the effect of the changes premitted in freight rates will require more time and study, but in the meantime we are forced to the conclusion that the order as applied to passenger rates will result in very small increases in revenue."

PRIZE-WINNING POEM

G. W. Walton of Elmo, Sent "Girl of Seventeen" in Contest of Kansas City Post Recently.

This poem was sent by G. W. Walton a banker of Elmo, in the contest as to what age a woman is most beautiful to The Kansas City Post. It won a prize.

Do you know what I think is the fairest thing
That ever my eyes have seen?
'Tis the blushing, beautiful face and form
Of a girl just seventeen.

The charm of her childhood lingers yet
In the shade of her clustering curls,
And her soul, with its unripe thoughts aglow,
Is as pure as the Ocean pearls.

The bird of Joy in her bosom sings
And lives in her laughing eyes,
And her glad heart thrills with a boundless love
For everything under the skies.

Like a stream that never a rough wind swept
Her beautiful life glides on,
While her face, where no shadow has ever crept,
Is bright as the Orient dawn.

Her dainty feet on the threshold wait
For a beck from "the grown-up land,"
And there she dreams as she holds her fate
In the palm of her dimpled hand.

And yet, I feel there will come too soon
A change in that girlish heart
When the days that were and the days that are
Will now and forever depart.

And so must the days and the months go by
With the smiles and the tears between,
'Till in just one year you would scarcely know
The girl of seventeen.

HIGHWAY IMPROVEMENT

ROAD DRAG BOTHERING MANY

Implement Cannot Be Used to Advantage Except When Ground Is in Right Condition.

The road drag is giving the public, the politicians and the county supervisors a world of trouble, troubling them, we sometimes think, more than the drag itself, troubles the roads. It is such a foolishly simple thing, so cheap and so easily made, that the average man off the farm, and not a few on the farm, are prone to think: Can there any good thing come out of such a Nazareth?

It seems to be impossible by any legislation that has been enacted, to induce farmers generally to use the drag. The townsmen with automobiles soundly belabor the farmers for not using it, and sometimes hound the farmers along these automobile roads into using it when it is a damage instead of a benefit.

The inherent difficulty in using the drag and making legislation effective is this, that the drag cannot be used to advantage except when the ground is in the right condition, says a writer in Wallace's Farmer. It is of no use at all when the ground is very dry, and often a damage. There is but one way that we see of making it thoroughly practical, and that is for the farmer himself, who knows when it has rained and when the roads should be dragged, to get out and use it on the road alongside his own farm. Occasionally we hear of a county supervisor who calls up his neighbors by telephone, and tells them that now is the time to drag the roads, and persuades them to do it, with wonderfully good results. But it does not always rain over the whole of a supervisor's district at the same time.

We shall have to depend on dirt roads in the corn belt for a long time to come. Not altogether; for we shall have some gravel and brick and cement roads on the main traveled thoroughfares; but nine-tenths of the roads must be dirt, and must be kept in shape by use of the drag.

A few weeks ago we traveled along a road admirably adapted to dragging, and at the crossroads was a road machine costing a large sum of money. It was evidently managed by a man who had no faith in the drag, and who had been spending the people's money in digging up the side of the road and putting the sod on the middle of it, as though sod would make a good road. Vegetable matter is a fine thing in the corn field, but you cannot possibly make a good road until you get rid of it. Why, at great expense to the county and the township, invest in a road grader, and then spoil the road by putting all the rubbish into the middle of it?

We don't believe we shall ever have good roads in Iowa until the farmer is given charge of half the road along his line, and the owner of the adjoining farm the other half, and is then persuaded to drag his half after every rain, assuming in the first place that it has been drained and graded. This will give us the best of roads when they are good. It will not give us good roads all the year around. There is a time of the year when dirt roads will poach up. That cannot be helped—but the better they are graded and the better they are dragged at the proper time, the better they will become, and the less they will poach.

When on the good roads train, nearly ten years ago, we tried to appeal to farmers to keep their roads dragged whether they were paid for it or not, for love of their farms and their community. They should be paid for it, provided the work is properly done, either by remission of taxes or actual cash; but if not, pride of their farm should induce them to drag it.

Progress and Prosperity.

Our public highways are the avenues over which all the people may travel. They are the avenues which all our marketable farm products must pass before reaching the channels of trade and commerce. Good roads mean progress and prosperity, a benefit to the people who live in the cities and an advantage to the people who live in the country. They mean the economical transportation of marketable farm products, the necessaries of life at a minimum cost.

GIRLS! HAVE A MASS OF BEAUTIFUL HAIR, SOFT, GLOSSY, WAVY

25-Cent Bottle Destroys Dandruff and Doubles Beauty of Your Hair.

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you cannot find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance.

Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all—you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine.

The Passing Poem.

From the London, Va., Mirror.

If you want to live in the kind of a town
That's the kind of a town you like,
You needn't slip your clothes in a grip
And start on a long, long hike.

You'll find elsewhere what you left behind,
For there's nothing that's really new.
It's a knock at yourself when you knock your town;
It isn't your town—it's you.

Real towns are not made by men afraid
Lest somebody else gets ahead.
When everybody works and nobody shirks
You can raise a town from the dead.

And if while you make your personal stake
Your neighbor can make one, too.
Your town will be what you want to see.
It isn't your town—it's you.

FARM CHANGES NEAR B. J.

Fred Griffey Moving to Country and Fred Hilles to Town.

Fred Griffey is moving to his 160-acre farm, northeast of town, this week, and will again become a "son of the soil." He has his place well stocked and can begin just where he left off a year ago when he came to Burlington Junction to run the garage.

Mr. and Mrs. Hilles have leased their farm, west of Burlington Junction, to John Miller, and will make their home in Burlington Junction. Possession will be given March 1, at which time they will move here.

Fred has never been feeling first class since his accident last winter, when the horse he was riding fell on his leg, fracturing it. The old injury often bothers him while he is working and he has decided to give it a good rest.

John Miller, who has rented the farm, has been living on the C. H. Miller place, near Quitman, this year.—Burlington Junction Post.

SPARE INSECT-EATING BIRDS

Drastic Measures Must Be Taken to Save Quail, Grouse and Pheasants From Complete Annihilation.

"The time has come when every sportsman should put away his gun for five years at least," said Col. G. O. Shields during a recent lecture upon "Birds and Animals of America."

Colonel Shields argued that drastic measures must be put into effect if quail, grouse, pheasants, and prairie chickens are to be saved from extinction. The annihilation of these birds, he said, would mean untold poverty resulting from the scarcity of crops which would be eaten by insects.

"Ninety per cent of the normal bird life of this country already has been destroyed and the other 10 per cent will go in the next five years unless strong measures are employed to stop the slaughter," he said. "Careful scientists tell us that if all the insect-eating birds were destroyed the whole continent would, within three years, become uninhabitable by reason of the myriads of insects that would spring up and devour every living thing."

Roads Should Be Crooked.

Good roads in the future should be built on the zig-zag plan for the avoidance of hills and steep grades, the federal office of good roads announced recently in declaring that the lives of horses and automobiles could be lengthened thereby and the cost of hauling reduced materially. The experts contend that "the longest way around often may be the shortest and most economical way home," and decry the natural tendency to build straight roads whenever they must breast heavy grades.

Real Generosity.

After six months of widowhood, Lizzie consented to enter the state of matrimony again, says the Pittsburgh Dispatch. Shortly after she was led to the altar her former mistress met her on the street Lizzie was dressed in deepest mourning.

"Why, Lizzie," exclaimed the other in great surprise, "for whom are you in black?"

"It's for poor Mike, my furrst husband," answered Lizzie. "When he died Oi wuz that poor Oi couldn't but Oi said if iver Oi could Oi would, an' me new man, Dan, is as generous as a lard, mum!"

FERTILIZERS FOR WHEAT

Recommendations for Farmers Given After Long Tests in Northern Missouri by University.

The Missouri Agricultural Experiment Station, under M. F. Miller, has been conducting experiments on a series of fields in both Northern and Southern Missouri, with fertilizer, lime manure, etc., for a number of years and with striking results.

For the farmer handling level prairie or the worn areas of the rolling prairie of Northern Missouri, a fertilizer high in phosphate such as one containing 2 per cent. nitrogen, 10 per cent, available phosphoric acid and 1 per cent potash applied before wheat, or the same fertilizer with nitrogen omitted, will give good results. The scarcity of potash prevents the profitable use of fertilizer containing more than the above per cent this season.

The use of fertilizer on wheat is steadily increasing. It must always be understood that one should not depend on fertilizer alone. It should be used with proper systems of soil management for maintaining organic matter.

The results of a number of years' experience with fertilizers, on a series of soil experiment fields, have definitely indicated the best systems of soil management for Missouri soils. Free bulletins Nos. 126, 127 and 128 for northern Missouri and free bulletins Nos. 119, 129 and 130 for the southern part of the state may be secured from Missouri Agricultural Experiment Station at Columbia, Mo. They cover these experiments in detail and give very valuable information for Missouri farmers.

Old Fashioned Weather Signs.

In its current issue, Farm and Fireside, the national farm paper published in Springfield, Ohio, says, of course that the best weather prophet in the world is the United States weather bureau, which is right at least four times out of five. In regard to the less scientific guides Farm and Fireside says:

"Here are a few weather signs which are older probably than anyone living today. Experience has shown them to be fairly reliable, and some of them can be explained on a scientific basis:

"Moonlight nights have the heaviest frosts.

"The higher the clouds the finer the weather.

"The farther the sight the nearer the rain.

"Dew is an indication of fine weather.

"When the stars flicker in a dark background, rain or snow follows soon

"Expect a strong wind with stormy weather when smoke from chimneys hangs near the ground.

"Here are a few in verse. They have the advantage of being easily remembered:

"Clear moon,
Frost soon.
"Year of snow
Fruit will grow.
"Rain before seven,
Fine before eleven.
"If the sun set in gray
The next will be a rainy day.
"When the wind's in the south
The rain's in its mouth.
The wind in the west
Suits everyone best.
"If you see grass in January
Lock your grain in your granary.
"Evening red and morning gray
Help the traveler on his way;
Evening gray and morning red
Bring down rain upon his head.
When the clouds appear like rocks and towers,
The earth's refreshed by frequent showers.

"If you get the official weather report by phone you'd better count on that first. But the proverbs and jingles just given are better than a common guess."

A New Method of Baking Cakes

Mrs. Nevada Briggs, the baking expert, says:

"There is just one way to make your cakes rise high and evenly—give them time to rise before a crust is formed and the batter is stiffened by cooking."

"If using a gas, gasoline or oil stove, light your oven when you put the cake in and keep the flame low until the cake has doubled in bulk; then increase the heat until it is evenly browned and will respond to the pressure of the finger. If using a coal or wood range, leave the oven door open until the cake is in; then turn on the drafts and by the time the oven is at baking temperature, the cake will have raised sufficiently."

For rich, moist, feathery cakes Mrs. Briggs always recommends

KC BAKING POWDER

It is double acting and sustains the raise. You can open and close the oven door, turn the tin around in the oven or do anything else necessary, without any danger of making the cake fall.

Sonny Was a Bungler.

A certain negro lad had been brought into an Alabama police court for the fifth time, charged with stealing chickens. The magistrate determined to appeal to the boy's father.

"See here," said his honor, "this boy of yours has been in this court so many times charged with chicken stealing that I am tired of seeing him here."

"I doesn't blame you, jedge," said the parent, "an' I's as tired of seein' him here as you is."

"Then why don't you teach him to act? Show him the right way, and he won't be coming here."

"I has showed him the right way," said the father, "but he jest don't seem to have no talent for learning how, jedge. He always gets caught."—National Monthly.

WOULDSTANDARDIZESCHOOLS

Investigation in Progress by Men From the University of Missouri to Furnish Basis for Reorganization.

That every boy and girl in Missouri may have an equal chance to attend a good school, and that each school may be as good as the best now, is the end that representatives of the School of Education of the University of Missouri have in view in a study of school conditions they are making. That a reorganization of the school system is necessary is seen by the investigators.

Abner Jones, Peabody fellow in education at the University of Missouri, and Prof. J. D. Elliff, inspector of accredited schools for the University of Missouri, approve of a plan presented to the State Teacher's Association during its recent session at Kansas City for giving informational publicity to the conditions of the schools of the state. This would have as its object the standardization of all Missouri's public schools. It involves improved facilities, reorganization and aid for weaker schools, and minimum salary for teachers.

Educational surveys completed in two counties and in progress in others furnish part of the material for the project. A report of a survey of the educational conditions in Reynolds county will be published in a few months by the University.

Not only the standardization of the public schools is considered by the advocates of the improved system, but also a division of work with the state school inspectors which will allow the University to aid in standardizing private schools and junior colleges. Professor Elliff probably will give more time than usual this year to the inspection of the schools giving higher courses than the regular high schools.

FALL FEED FOR COWS.

Use Silage as the Grass Becomes Shorter and Dryer.

You cannot expect a cow to keep up a good milk flow without plenty of feed of the right kind. Now that pastures are furnishing less feed, silage should be given to keep conditions as nearly as possible the same as those found on spring and summer pastures. It is easy to forget that the cow's feed is being shortened, but if the best returns are to be secured the milk flow must be kept as high as possible for ten or eleven months of the year. If it once goes down it is very hard or impossible to raise it again before the next freshening.

When the pastures dry up while corn is still green, it furnishes the cheapest and most efficient addition to grass, but silage, grain, and hay are now the main things to rely on. The amount given should be gradually increased as the pasture furnishes less and less feed.

Less feed will be required and better results secured if a good barn is used. While the fat steer is so well protected by a thick layer of fat that he does not feel the cold so keenly, even he requires more food if not sheltered. The dairy cow will not do her best work when exposed to cold even tho given plenty of feed. It is cheaper and more effective to keep her warm by means of a barn than by means of corn.—C. H. Eckles, University of Missouri, College of Agriculture.

IMPORTANCE OF ROAD REPAIR

Impression That There Are Certain Types of Highways That Are Permanent Is Erroneous.

There is no phase of the road problem more important than that of maintenance. The general impression that there are certain types of roads that are permanent is erroneous. No permanent road has ever been constructed or ever will be, according to the road specialists of the United States department of agriculture. The only things about a road that may be considered permanent are the grading, culverts and bridges. Roads constructed by the most skillful highway engineers will soon be destroyed by the traffic, frost, rain and wind, unless they are properly maintained. But the life of these roads may be prolonged by systematic maintenance. A poor road will not only be improved by proper maintenance, but may become better in time than a good road without it.

The first and last commandment in earth road maintenance is to keep the surface well drained. To insure good drainage the ditches should be kept open, all obstructions removed and a smooth crown maintained. Except for very stony soil the road machine or scraper may be used very effectively for this work. The machine should be used once or twice a year and the work should be done when the soil is damp so that it will pack and bake into a hard crust. Wide and shallow side ditches should be maintained with sufficient fall and capacity to dispose of surface water. These ditches can in most places be constructed and repaired with a road machine.

All vegetable matter such as sods and weeds should be kept out of the road as they make a spongy surface which retains moisture. Clods are also objectionable for they soon turn to dust or mud and for that reason roads should never be worked when dry or hard. Boulders or loose stones are equally objectionable if a smooth surface is to be secured.

A split-log drag or some similar device is very useful in maintaining the surface after suitable ditches and cross sections have once been secured. This drag can also be used to advantage on a gravel road as well as on an earth road. The principle involved in dragging is that clays and most heavy soils will puddle when wet and set very hard when dry. The little attention that the earth road needs must be given promptly and at the proper time if the best results are to be obtained.

In dragging roads only a small amount of earth is moved, just enough to fill the ruts and depressions with a thin layer of plastic clay or earth which packs very hard so that the next rain instead of finding ruts, depressions and clods in which to collect runs off leaving the surface but little affected.

The drag should be light and should be drawn over the road at an angle of about forty-five degrees. The driver should ride on the drag and should not drive faster than a walk. One round trip, each trip straddling a wheel track, is usually sufficient to fill the ruts and smooth the surface. If necessary the road should be dragged after every bad spell of weather, when the soil is in proper condition to puddle well and still not adhere to the drag. If the road is very bad it may be dragged when very wet and again when it begins to dry out. A few trips over the road will give the operator an idea as to the best time to drag. Drag at all seasons, but do not drag a dry road.

The slope or crown of an earth road should be about one inch to the foot. If the crown becomes too high it may be reduced by dragging toward the ditch instead of from it. If the drag cuts too much, shorten the hitch and change your position on the drag. If it is necessary to protect the face of the drag with a strip of iron, it should be placed flush with the edge of the drag and not projecting. A cutting edge should be avoided, as the main object in dragging is to smear the damp soil into position.

Usually Too Narrow.

The average roadway is crowned too narrow. Sixteen feet, in these days of autos and auto trucks, is none too much, and where travel is heavy 20 would be better.

Nothing New.

"I see," said Bilkins, "that a French scientist has discovered a method for staving off old age."

"Well, what of it?" demanded Wilkins. "There's nothing new in that. A man can stave off old age by jumping off the Eiffel tower, or dropping a lighted match in a powder barrel while sitting on it, or by rocking the boat when he's out on the water, or by riding over Niagara Falls sitting astride of a log. Those French scientists make me tired with their hullabaloo over nothing."—Harper's Weekly.

A Selfish Question.

From the Philadelphia Bulletin.

Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, discussing the divorce evil, said in Philadelphia:

"Love is the best foundation for marriage, of course. But commonsense keeps it cool—and cool things, of course, keep the best.

"But selfishness kills all—and some married people are as selfish as the lady to whom the palmist said:

"'These lines, alas, tell me that you are destined to wear widow's weeds.

"'Oh, dear me!' said the lady. 'For how long.'"
